EXPERIENCE

INTERACTION

In the offline shops, shop assistants interact with customers. Customers can ask shop staff about hot products, prices and out of stock status.

Online, customers will interact with each other on social media. Customers will look for videos of bloggers trying on the products and the comments below the videos, will check the real feedback under the links to the clothes, will check the online events and so on.

ONE KEY AREA OF IN-STORE IMPROVEMENT

Superdry's store equipment is not built well enough to strongly highlight the brand concept.

As a hipster brand, Superdry's philosophy of vintage Americana, nostalgia and street cred is key to the brand. And when customers walk into a Superdry shop, there is no particularly strong impact effect. Although there are vintage walls, retro lampshades, warm lighting and skateboard element hangers, the shop is far from being built with enough gear.

Superdry could therefore consider making the following improvements:

Enhancing Japanese street elements

Superdry can paint the walls of the shop, put up old-fashioned roll-up doors, etc.

Place old bikes, giant skateboards and guitars inside the shop to highlight the street element style and give customers a strong visual effect.

Enhanced American vintage elements

In the in store lounge area, Superdry can place old fashioned gaming machines for customers to relax and enjoy.

In the official flagship shop, old vintage cars can be placed to enhance the visual impact.

In the different style areas, old-fashioned directional signs can be placed with the style of the clothes to guide customers.

Old newspapers can be pasted on the walls and gramophones placed on the tables.
